The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(B) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over either Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) or Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649). The claims are considered to read on each of Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) and Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649). However, if a difference exists between the claims and either Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) or Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649), it would reside in optimizing the steps of either Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) or Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649). It would have been obvious to optimize the steps of each of Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) and Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649) to enhance separation.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over either Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) or Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649) in view of GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online

2 March 2003, pages 1-7 and Google Translation of the first three full paragraphs of page 5 of GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7. GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7 and Google Translation of the first three full paragraphs of page 5 of GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7 are considered to be a single reference. At best, the claims differ from either Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) or Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649) in reciting varying the size. GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7 and Google Translation of the first three full paragraphs of page 5 of GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7 discloses changing cell size allows for varying the volume the device handles. It would have been obvious to vary the size of the cell in either Nunogaki (U.S. Patent No. 4,877,523) or Murayama (Journal of Chromatography, 239 (1982), pages 643-649) because GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7 and Google Translation of the first three full paragraphs of page 5 of GEPEA Resultants 2001 Internet Article, Online 2 March 2003, pages 1-7 are considered to be a single reference.
